BRITISH IN BALTIC

A report comes from Russia that following the big naval fight several of the British battle ships entered the Baltic Sea and have joined the Russian fleet.

The Russians still continue to drive back the Austrians.

They have taken over 140,000 prisoners along with enormous quantities of guns, ammunition and supplies. The Austrians have evacuated Cernowitz.

The Germans still continue their futile efforts around the Verdun sector, and thousands of Huns are slaughtered weekly in the vain attempt to capture this stronghold.

The Canadian battalions have suffered heavily during the past few days and the casualty lists contain over 6,000 names.

LADY URSULA'S HUSBAND

—BY—
FLORENCE WARDENWord, Lock & Co., Limited
TORONTO

"Dear old things!" said he, apostrophising affectionately a necklace of diamonds, pearls and emeralds in an old-fashioned setting. "I suppose you will think my taste atrocious, but I like these barbaric ornaments better than all your modern platinum-set diamonds, which to me have always a dead, dull look. I suppose it's because I remember these dainty things round the neck and on the dress of my grandmother."

Lady Ursula was watching, not the jewels but her husband. Perhaps, loyal as she was, all these jewels, this chase from the country to the other, the tales she had just heard, the new light in which she had seen Paul that morning, had all combined to make her, at the bottom of her heart, vaguely suspicious and ill at ease.

Her innocent blue eyes were fixed upon him, her lips were parted, and it was easy to read upon her countenance the varying thoughts that rose in her mind as she looked at her husband.

And he, being infinitely cleverer than she, knew exactly what was passing in her mind, and recognized the necessity of caution in his dealings with her.

His intentions had been to take the jewels away from her, with the exception of one or two of the most modest ornaments, and to dispose of them in his own way, on pretence of putting them in a safe place. Now he began to wonder whether she would suffer this, or whether their disappearance would rouse fresh doubt in her mind.

There was a pause, during which he played with the heavy old necklace, and Lady Ursula watched him, at last he said:

"I wonder whether I was right in refusing your brother permission to take them to his place. I don't want them up! It might have been our best plan, after all, to have them in a safe place while we are travelling about."

Lady Ursula bent forward eagerly. "May I take them back to town, then?" asked she.

Paul laughed. "No," he said. "Not after what he said to me last night. Call it curiosity if you will, but I don't feel inclined to do anything your brother wants me to do."

A shadow crossed her face, and it was plain that she was again suspicious was clouding her mind.

"Look here," said Paul, "if you like, I'll put them away till we come back to Paris on our way back to England."

She raised her head and looked straight in his face.

"Put them away? Where?" she asked.

It seemed to him that she was suspicious again. He waved his hand impatiently.

"Oh I could get them locked up at a banker's said he."

Lady Ursula shook her head.

"No," she said, "I'll keep them with me, Paul. I don't really mind the responsibility, and—well, I'd rather."

Paul was taken aback. Not having been present at the interview between the brother and sister, he could not tell exactly what had passed between them, and he could not but suspect that the poison of suspicion had been instilled into his wife's mind by Lord Eastling to an extent which made it dangerous to insist upon taking the jewellery away from her against her will.

Probably Lord Eastling had warned her that it would be taken away, and had prepared her to look upon its disappearance with distrust.

Yet how was he to satisfy his confederates, who were clamouring for their share of this, the booty obtained by their latest raid, unless he could carry the jewels to them that afternoon, as he had arranged to do?

Paul was in a dilemma. Meanwhile Lady Ursula gathered the cases together, and took them in to the adjoining room where she locked them away in a bag. He could see her, through the aperture of the open door, bestowing them inside the large dressing-case with scrupulous care, and opening each case, etc. by one, before putting it away.

Decidedly, in the state of doubt and mystery which had been created by the events of the past few hours, for him to dream of him taking the jewels away without her knowledge was out of the question.

After watching her from the sitting-room, whistling softly to himself, Paul made up his mind; and when, after taking his wife for a walk, he brought her back to the hotel and told her that he had an appointment to keep that afternoon, he went away, without the jewels, to meet his expectant partners in crime.

They were waiting for him, and they had arranged to take him to the room they had engaged at an English-American bar, as a best place for a quiet talk and share-out of the spoils.

Paul went with them to the room, saying nothing till they were all together, except these few words which he uttered when they assailed him with cries of, "have you got the jewels?"

"No. Not yet. I'll explain."

They said nothing to this, but Paul guessed from the expressive and gloomy glances which the other two exchanged, that he was going to take a plunge into difficulties.

When they were all together in the pleasant second floor bedroom, with the winter afternoon sun streaming through the window, Paul took a seat in a large chair, and he said:

"I want to make a fresh bargain with you two fellows. I want you to let me hang on to all the stuff we got in our raid."

The two men showed fight at once. "By Jove, I thought there was something in the wind!" exclaimed Brady Grane, showing his yellow teeth.

"And our answer is quite ready and at your service, my lord," said Will Evans, in a snarling tone. "It's no overrating me. So go back and fetch the price, and be quick about it, or we'll find a way to make you."

"There's no need to talk about making me do anything," said Paul suavely. "I'm absolutely in your hands in the matter. If you insist on a share-out at once, well, you're within your rights, and you must have it. But I think, when you've heard what I've got to say, you may very likely change your mind."

"No, we shan't. Come on. We've waited a good long time, a matter of six months now, for this share-out. Putting ourselves out for your convenience. Now you might just consider ours," persisted Evans.

"Let's hear what he's got to say first," said Grane.

"It's only this," said Paul calmly, as he changed his posture, and rising from his chair, put one knee on it and held the rail with both hands, "that if you insist on the share-out now, I shall have a difficulty in accounting for the disappearance of your two shares, and though I may be able to get over the difficulty, it will be the last spec I shall engage in."

"Going to turn honest?" sneered Evans.

"Perhaps," said Paul. "Anyhow, I shan't work with you two any longer."

"Oh, I see. So it's a threat, is it?" demanded Evans, thrusting his little mean dark-skinned face into that of the handsome man who looked such a strange companion for him.

"Yes, it's threats. And you know, if we split up, who will be the worst loser."

Brady Grane thrust himself between the disputants good humouredly.

"Of course we do, Syd, and we're not going for to split up," he said. "Your a toff, you are, and if you break up with us you can get lots of other folks to help you keep going. But we ain't got no pals equal to you working in the same line of business. So we won't have no rows, we'll just hear what you've got to suggest. You've got something I lay."

"Yes, yes, I have," said Paul. "As you know, I rather have done with the game altogether."

"Now you've married money, you've got no need of us," grumbled Evans.

"Well, never mind that. What I'm going to suggest is this: If you'll let me hang on to the stuff for another month, I'll pull off another coup, and pay your shares out of that."

The two men exchanged glances. "A bird in the hand," said Evans grimly.

"Have you got something in your eye?" asked Grane.

"I may say that I have. I think I can lay my hands on a good haul."

Without much risk, good enough to pay out at five thousand apiece for you two. Will that do?"

The two men consulted each other with their eyes. Paul Payne had intimated his intention of withdrawing from the confederacy of which he was the heart, the head, the muscle and the hands. Grane was of opinion that he ought to be retained at any price; Evans, less intelligent, was less amenable.

There was a rambling discussion, with unfriendly hints, muttered oaths, hot words.

But presently, out of the label and the heat there emerged a plan, a suggestion, which was that of Brady Grane.

"You say you want to hang on to these things you've got, because your fine lady wife looks upon you as her property now, because you don't know how to get 'em out of her hands? You say as how you'll give us each five thousand pounds, or the value of it, in a month's time, if we let you keep all the lot?"

"That's it," said Paul.

Needed Teaching

Yells from the nursery brought the mother, who found the baby peacefully pulling small Billy's curls.

"Never mind, darling," she comforted. "Baby doesn't know how it hurts."

Half an hour later Billy shrieks from the baby made her run again to the nursery.

"Why, Billy," she cried, "what is the matter with baby?"

"Nothing, muzzer," said Billy calmly; "only now he knows."

If Britain "Went Dry."

There's the British drink for the last year was $200,000,000, and probably they are now spending a billion dollars a year on something which many people in the United States and England manage to get along without. The war has cost Great Britain about $1,500,000,000. If we subtract from this the loans to other countries, which will presumably be repaid, and the money spent on feeding the soldiers, who would have had to be fed and clothed anyhow, though not so well in time of peace, we should have left, using the estimate of Sir George Paish, a net loss to the country of about $2,500,000,000. If then, Great Britain should go dry, as Russia has, its total war losses could be paid up within the next three years, not allowing anything for the gain in industrial efficiency and the saving from the crime and impaired health which incidentally results from the consumption of a billion dollars' worth of liquor a year. —New York Independent.

"Naw, Willie," said mother, "you told me a falsehood. Do you know what happens to little boys who tell falsehoods?"

"No," returned Willie tremblingly. "Well," continued mother, "a big black man with only one eye in the centre of his forehead comes along and flies with him up to the moon and makes him pick sticks for the remainder of his life. Now, you will never tell a falsehood again, will you? It is terribly wicked."

"How did Mr. Doppel act when you asked him for his daughter's hand?" "Splendidly. I've seen people on the stage who couldn't simulate sorrow any better than he did."

A prominent City Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "It is a remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to medical specialists and widely prescribed by them. It can be used for any eye trouble, and is one of the very few preparations of this kind which are found for regular use in almost every family."

TO SAVE EYES
Is the Object of This Free Prescription—Try It If Your Eyes Give You Trouble.

Thousands of people suffer from eye troubles because they do not know what to do. They know some good home remedy for every other minor ailment, but none for their eye troubles. They neglect their eyes, because the trouble is not sufficient to drive them to an eye specialist, who would, anyway, charge them a heavy fee. As a last resort, they go to an optician, to the five and ten-cent store, and oftentimes get glasses that they do not need, or which, after being used a few months, do their eyes more injury than good.

Here is a simple prescription that every one should use: a grain of Ron-Opto dissolved in a glass of water. Use three or four times a day to bathe the eyes. This prescription and the simple Ron-Opto system keeps the eyes clean, sharpens the vision and quickly overcomes inflammation and irritation; weak, watery, overworked, tired eyes and other similar troubles are greatly benefited and oftentimes cured by its use. Many reports show that wearers of glasses have discarded them after a few weeks' use.

It is good for the eyes, and contains no ingredients which would injure the most sensitive eyes of an infant or the aged. Your own oculist will endorse this prescription, or the Valinas Drug Co. of Toronto will fill it for you by mail. Try it, and know for once what real eye comfort is.

Remember this—Power is the thing which makes or mars motoring pleasure and satisfaction. Other things may have a stronger appeal to the inexperienced eye, but eventually all motorists discover that power is the great essential.

And remember this—You can't have sufficient power in your motor car unless the motor is of the Valve-in-Head type. Racing drivers, almost to a man, use cars with Valve-in-Head motors. They know from years of experience that you absolutely cannot get sufficient power from any except a Valve-in-Head motor.

Finally, remember this—"McLaughlin" motor cars always have had Valve-in-Head motors, and developed to the highest point of efficiency yet attained in automobile engineering.

By the Roadside
We have heard a lot of discussion about improving the roadside fronts of farms by tree planting and weed cutting. There is little more to be said on the subject. It remains for someone in each community to work out an object lesson. If only one farm owner along a main travelled road in the vicinity of a county seat will clean up his roadside, keep the grass clipped and plant a row of fruit or nut trees, it will not be long before the idea spreads throughout the county.

Such movements need agitation, but they need demonstration. What I am in the kind of improvement that will require a long time for general adoption, and pioneers in every community are needed. Here is a simple prescription that every one should use: a grain of Ron-Opto dissolved in a glass of water. Use three or four times a day to bathe the eyes. This prescription and the simple Ron-Opto system keeps the eyes clean, sharpens the vision and quickly overcomes inflammation and irritation; weak, watery, overworked, tired eyes and other similar troubles are greatly benefited and oftentimes cured by its use. Many reports show that wearers of glasses have discarded them after a few weeks' use.

It is good for the eyes, and contains no ingredients which would injure the most sensitive eyes of an infant or the aged. Your own oculist will endorse this prescription, or the Valinas Drug Co. of Toronto will fill it for you by mail. Try it, and know for once what real eye comfort is.

A prominent City Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "It is a remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to medical specialists and widely prescribed by them. It can be used for any eye trouble, and is one of the very few preparations of this kind which are found for regular use in almost every family."

Remember this—Power is the thing which makes or mars motoring pleasure and satisfaction. Other things may have a stronger appeal to the inexperienced eye, but eventually all motorists discover that power is the great essential.

And remember this—You can't have sufficient power in your motor car unless the motor is of the Valve-in-Head type. Racing drivers, almost to a man, use cars with Valve-in-Head motors. They know from years of experience that you absolutely cannot get sufficient power from any except a Valve-in-Head motor.

Finally, remember this—"McLaughlin" motor cars always have had Valve-in-Head motors, and developed to the highest point of efficiency yet attained in automobile engineering.

Note and Comment

It has come to our ears that a merchant in town when asked why he didn't advertise in the News, made reply that he tried to do so and that we refused to take his business.

In making that reply the merchant told a deliberate lie and knew he was not telling the truth when he made such a statement.

We are here to make this paper go and it would be suicidal on our part to refuse any man's business.

The man in question stopped his advertisement on his own accord and for reasons not told to us and it is his own affair to do so; but when he makes an out and out liar of himself at our expense, it is about time the public knew the facts in the case, and that this particular person was shown up for what he is.

The securing of a pure water supply and the keeping of the surroundings of the same in a sanitary condition is most important, and yet in Alberta, in so many country districts, the water supply is anything but this, and it is hard to inculcate into the ordinary mind the fact that water that looks good, tastes good, smells good, may not really be fit water for drinking purposes.

Two weeks from today the Liquor Act will come into effect in Alberta and all bars, clubs, etc., will be closed up. This great prohibition movement has covered nearly every province in Canada, and by the first of July this year all the prairie provinces will be under prohibition. Ontario will come under the same thing in September and it is expected that British Columbia and the Yukon will follow the same lines shortly.

It is the intention of the Government to strictly enforce this Act, the main points of which are published elsewhere in this paper.

The heavy rains of last week have made the trails very bad and in some places impassable. One thing that this district needs is good roads. The farmers are certainly up against it in having to travel over such trails, especially in the spring and after a few days continuous rain. Those living in the south have a hard time in reaching this point and many get stuck in the low spots and this means a delay of hours and oftentimes longer when the waggon is loaded with grain.

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS BUGGY PAINT

was originally made for re-painting and re-finishing old buggies, and combines all the toughness, durability, and strength of color necessary to withstand the hard wear a buggy gets. There's no other paint for the purpose as good and economical.

It's splendid wearing qualities make it also adaptable for painting porch and lawn furniture and all articles subject to outside exposure where a strong, gloss finish is wanted.

A good graded road, running south from town, would tap all the district between here and New Brigidon and other points in that vicinity and would bring joy to the hearts of those living there and incidentally mean more money to the town. The government and the municipality should be urged to have this important matter attended to at once.

Have you noticed it?

On the tint of a woman's ears;

Some bards will go without a meal
While they sing of the lambskins [bleat,

But I can reel a luridspiel.
On the smells of St. Urban Street.

There's rotten banana peels on the road
And sausages on the sill,
While papa curves home with a heavy [load

And a scent like a whisky still.
The cheese frisks gaily about the floor
The flies form a crust on a pie,
And the perfumes that pour from each [open door

Whisper fish markets late in July.
But oh! I think its the pleasant task
Ever a child can do,
To go "social servicing" there in a [mask

And a pocket handkerchief.

"A Matter of Opinion"

Attractive Booklet Issued by the Canadian Forestry Association

The aggressive educational campaign of the Canadian Forestry Association in the cause of forest conservation has been supplemented by a new issue called "A Matter of Opinion." The booklet is an attractive one and strikes at the subject of forest guarding from a unique angle. Seven characters are introduced—Settler, Camper, Banker, Railway Man, Power Engineer, Fire Ranger, and Tax Payer—each telling his personal story of the need for living forests and the increasing menace of burned waste forests. The booklet makes easy reading and a mass of information is packed into the 24 pages. Copies may be had free by addressing the Association's Office, Booth Building, Ottawa.

THIN-BLOODED PEOPLE

Often Become Seriously Ill Before They Realize It

Some people have a tendency to become thin-blooded just as others have an inveterate tendency to rheumatism or nervous disorders. The condition in which the blood becomes so thin that the whole body suffers comes on so gradually that anyone with a natural disposition in that direction should watch the symptoms carefully. Bloodlessness can be cured more easily in the earlier stages than later. It begins with a tired feeling that rest does not overcome, the complexion becomes pale, slight indigestion produces breathlessness and headaches and backache frequently follow. In the treatment of troubles due to thin blood no other medicine has had such a great success as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They go right to the root of the trouble, make rich, red blood, thus restoring the system to health and strength. Mr. R. F. Ashford, Peterboro, Ont., says: "Four years ago my condition became so serious that it seemed to me I possessed every pain and ache and every morbid feeling possible. For months I had been overworked, and bereaved, and added to this I had been forced to break down my constitution. I had a severe over-present headache and pains in the back of the eyes, and at the same time I was seldom free from severe neuralgic pains. I was really hungry, and when I was it seemed to me I was starving. I had made my other ill harder to bear. Of course I consulted a doctor, and he told me a rest and change of air, just the thing I was unable to procure. I was so tired that I had a particularly bad spell on the day my daughter returned from college, and she insisted that I should take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was decidedly skeptical, but she got some and to please her I took them. The result—After the first box I was compelled to admit that I really did feel better. After the second box I ungrudgingly admitted that they were doing me good, and after the sixth box I felt free from every ache and pain and in gratitude I began to praise the pills to others. I am feeling as fit as I did twenty years ago and I owe it to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Requisite on the farm.—Every farmer and stock-raiser should keep a supply of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil on hand, not only as a ready remedy for ill in the family, but because it is a horse and cattle medicine of great potency. Calls Them One of Her Best Friends

DAME BELANGER TALKS OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Tells How They Cured Her Rheumatism and Made Her So Well She Could Work Without Fatigue.

St. Amateur, Gloucester Co., N. B. (Special).—Cured of rheumatism, from this cause she has been a severe sufferer, Dame Pierre Belanger, well known and highly respected here, is telling her friends that Dodd's Kidney Pills have made her well.

"I consider Dodd's Kidney Pills one of the best friends I have," Dame Belanger states. "I had rheumatism and the pains in my limbs caused me a great deal of suffering. I took six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and they made me well. My pains are all gone, and I can now work without being fatigued. I will always keep Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure rheumatism because it is caused by sick kidneys. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. If the kidneys are healthy and doing their full work they strain all the uric acid out of the blood, and there can be no rheumatism. Dodd's Kidney Pills always make the kidneys work. They take away that tired feeling by ensuring pure blood and good circulation.

Collecting Waste Paper

Co-operation Necessary for Successful Results

The article in Conservation for March on "Saving Waste Paper" has aroused considerable interest throughout Canada. Many letters have been received asking for information as to methods of collection and disposal.

Waste paper is a commodity of very low value, and collecting and shipping charges reduce very materially the final returns from same. To reduce the expense of gathering to the minimum, the paper should be collected through co-operation of those interested or by local philanthropic or charitable organizations. A headquarters should be established, or collection boxes distributed, where the paper may be left. For shipping, the paper should be put into bales, for which a baling press is necessary. There are many types of press on the market, several at moderate prices.

To secure the minimum shipping charges for the monetary return for saving this wasted material, there is the further incentive of assisting to reduce the demand upon the forests of Canada to supply new material for the ever increasing requirements of the paper-making industry.

Apert from the monetary return for saving this wasted material, there is the further incentive of assisting to reduce the demand upon the forests of Canada to supply new material for the ever increasing requirements of the paper-making industry.

WHAT IS A DWELLING HOUSE?

Section 3.—The expression "private dwelling house" in this Act shall mean a separate dwelling with a separate door for the ingress and egress and actually and exclusively occupied and used as a private residence.

PLACES WHERE LIQUOR CANNOT BE KEPT, SOLD, CONSUMED OR GIVEN

A "private dwelling house" shall not include or mean and shall not be construed to include or mean any house or building occupied or partially occupied or used as an office (other than a duly registered physicians, dentists, veterinary surgeon's office,) or as a shop, or as a place of business, or as a factory, or as a workshop, or as a warehouse, or as a club house or club room, public hall, or hall of any society or order, or as a boarding house, or as a lodging house where there are more than three lodgers other than the members of the family, or as a livery stable or as an inn, tavern, hotel or other house or place of public entertainment or any house or buildings the rooms or compartments in which are leased to different persons, or any buildings or any buildings or house mentioned in Section 48 of this Act, or any house or building where for money or other valuable consideration any goods or chattels are kept for sale, or sold, or meals given or lodging provided, nor shall it include or mean to be construed to include or mean any house or building connected by a doorway or covered passage or way of internal communication, except by telephone with any place where liquor is authorized to be sold under this act, or with any office, except a duly registered physician's dentist's a veterinary surgeon's office or with any place of business, factory, warehouse, workshop, club house, club room, hall before mentioned, boarding house or lodging house as aforesaid, livery stable, inn, tavern, hotel or other house or place of public entertainment or resort or with any house or building mentioned in Section 47 of this Act.

Section 24 of the Act makes this prohibition. No person within the province of Alberta by himself, his clerk, servant or agent shall have, keep, or give liquor in any place whatsoever, other than in the private dwelling house in which he resides, except as authorized by this Act.

Section 51. "The burden of proving the right to have or keep or sell or give liquor shall be on the person accused of improperly or unlawfully having or keeping or selling or giving such liquor."

Section 71. Police officers, policemen, and constables shall have full authority to enforce any of the provisions of this Act.

Such alcoholic preparations as are made according to a formula of the British or United States Pharmacopoeia can be sold only by a qualified druggist. This refers to tonic wines, etc., sometimes sold outside of drug stores.

Sec. 34-34-4.

Dr. Sargent, Dentist, of Provost, was in town last Friday, and had a very busy day.

He will be here on the 2nd, and 4th. Fridays of each month

We understand that Miss Mae Lewis has been appointed as teacher at the Horse Shoe School which opens up for the season on Monday, June 19th.

The storm last Saturday did considerable damage around the town and many of the buildings covered with patent roofing suffered from the effects of the wind.

BORN—On Monday, June 5th to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Robinson, S.W. of Monitor, an eleven pound boy.

Mrs. N. Cramer returned to her home on Wednesday, after nursing for the past two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A.
Robinson.

Hugh MacDonald is renewing acquaintances around town again. Hughie has signed up with the 138th. batt.

The ranchers in the Neutral Hills are giving a Wild West Show on the 4th of July.

On Friday, June 23rd, there will be a sports day at Sedalia.

Mr. Stanley King, of Sounding Lake had the misfortune of losing a horse during last Friday's storm.

H. B. McMorris, who has been teller at the local bank for some time has been transferred to the branch in Provost.

Mae will be missed by his friends in this district.

Full Measure

*It is not the rule to find paints put up full measure. Most of them are put up in short measure—the cans are small and not full.

MARION SMITH, AGENT,
MONITOR P. O.

The Tennis Club is making a lot of improvements to the courts on the station grounds.

H. G. Ford, of Elbow Sask. arrived here on Tuesday, and has taken a position on the bank staff.

CREEK VALLEY

We are informed that Mr. Guy Conwell intended to take his outfit to C. F. Greyburn's place to start threshing on Monday last.

Ladies Aid met at Mrs. Melvins on Thursday, June 8th.
The ladies are very busy just now.

The two Wanogas are erecting a fine house for Mr. Dinno Deleff.

Mr. E Dibblee has almost finished work on a cottage he is building for Mr. Somers of Sounding Lake.

The crops in this district are looking exceedingly well so far, and the expectations are for a bumper crop.

Just to prove that petitions don't mean as much as they should, a fellow over at Fargo, so the story goes, started out the other day with a petition to shorten the road to Tipperary. He explained to those to whom he presented the petition that it was just a move to get something done to fix the roads, and of course everybody signed it without refusing or reading it. They all signed and let it go at that. It might have been a petition to pave the main street with green cheese the result would have been the same. The average man, when a petition is pushed before him signs it offhand to get rid of the interruption.

A REALLY GOOD FENCE
gives a man more satisfaction and comfort than anything else of equal value around the place.

Especially appreciated when one is going away for the day—one likes to feel that the fence is hog-tight and horse-high.

Whatever kind of fencing you may be thinking of getting for your place, for whatever purpose you want it, you will find our store ready to serve you.

We have a full range of sizes—for everything from chickens to horses.

Let us figure up your requirements—and we will take care to see that you get plenty of staples, too.

Shot Shells—REMINGTON-UMC, the make with the Red Ball Mark on every box.
You know these famous shells—the "Arrow"
and "Nitro Club" (Smokeless) and "New Club" (black powder). Every sportsman knows them —many use nothing else. We make it a point to keep them on hand all the time.
